LumiraDx Announces Strategic Refocus and Cost Restructuring Program

LONDON, April 6, 2023 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) – LumiraDx Limited (Nasdaq: LMDX), a leading global provider of point-of-care diagnostics testing solutions, today announced its Strategic Refocus and Cost Restructuring Program aimed at reducing its scale and operations to pre-pandemic levels and to further evolve LumiraDx into an agile organization with a clear focus on the areas with the greatest potential.

The program is part of LumiraDx’s ongoing efforts to streamline strategic focus and operations, optimize its cost structure and position itself for sustainable growth in the post-pandemic world. The restructuring will enable LumiraDx to focus its resources on key strategic priorities, including commercializing the existing product portfolio, expanding its product offerings in the United States through upcoming regulatory submissions and prioritizing the development and launch of its high sensitivity Troponin and Strep A Molecular tests.

Under the Cost Restructuring Program, LumiraDx will further reduce its global workforce by approximately 40%, including full-time, part-time and contractor positions. The changes in workforce include adjusting to reduced Covid-related production volumes and focusing on streamlining operations in commercial and R&D activities while preserving core functions for revenue generation. In addition to the headcount reductions, LumiraDx will continue the implementation of operating cost reductions. The Cost Restructuring Program is expected to result in approximately $36 million in annualized savings, including the impact of the anticipated increased incremental costs to be incurred for US regulatory submissions, with the majority of savings realized within the next four months.

“As we emerge from the pandemic, we are taking decisive actions to strengthen our business and position ourselves for long-term success,” said Ron Zwanziger, LumiraDx’s Founder and CEO. “While we regret the impact this decision will have on our affected employees, we are confident that these measures are necessary to align our resources with our strategic priorities, reduce costs and improve efficiencies.”

“After delivering on our prior cost reduction programs that were implemented in 2022, the savings and operational efficiencies generated through these new steps reinforce our commitment to drive LumiraDx to profitable growth,” shared Dorian LeBlanc, LumiraDx’s Chief Financial Officer. “These necessary steps position LumiraDx to execute on our core strategy of transforming community-based healthcare with our novel microfluidic Platform with a specific focus on expanding our test menu in key markets.”
